_Market Knowledge

Lomond understand the importance of targeting what appeals to buyers' hearts and minds. These details are key when we start to build your tailored sales' plan. Our staff consider every property, every seller individually, and promote your home as a unique proposition. Along with Lomond's recognised brand, it's all designed to achieve the best possible price for your home.

_Valuation

Every year Lomond successfully complete hundreds of valuations and sales. These, combined with our keen understanding of each local market, each property, local amenities, transport networks, and other important lifestyle ingredients, ensure the best valuation.

According to Rightmove, over half of Lomond Property viewing enquiries come from out-of-town buyers: now, more than ever, our marketing knowledge of the entire region and what it brings to buyers' lives are important focal points. We are not just selling your property; we are selling the lifestyle and work benefits it brings to your offering.

Craig Robertson - Director

"Come rain or shine, winter or summer, the journey to work for the Lomond team involves the wonderful Ayrshire landscape and beyond: rolling countryside, the Firth of Clyde and the beauty of Arran. These are part of the job satisfaction that comes with being part of a driven, successful, and highly competitive team who constantly deliver for clients."

Joe Gilligan – Director

“And vendors love our stunning drone photography and aerial footage, and how it expertly showcases gardens, grounds and surrounding areas. Remember, we are not just selling your property, we’re selling its location and associated lifestyle”

marketing your home

— The Lomond Property Database

Prior to launching your home on the market, Lomond contact all registered buyers on our database whose requirements match your property and location. Potential Lomond buyers are spread throughout Scotland, the rest of the UK, and Overseas, and since the push for remote working and provincial living, a larger proportion of our buyers are moving to Ayrshire from elsewhere.

Our comprehensive database includes singles, couples, families, investors, and this data increases the opportunities for quick, painless selling at the best possible price.

— Your Listing and Your Lomond Digital Brochure

Property presentation and your listing are fundamental elements when it comes to selling. Lomond’s high-quality digital brochure benefits from our local area and lifestyle knowledge.

In offering your property to buyers, we present professional photos and drone shots, floor plans and feature information, as well as detailing local amenities, leisure pursuits, schooling, transport and commuting options. This all showcases desirable homes and property.

— Online Platforms

Almost all buyers now start their search for a new home online, and listing your property on market-leading estate agent platforms is essential. Lomond will market your property on

Our own user-friendly site

— Social Media

Homebuyers now look to social media to search for properties, and we take many enquiries via each platform’s direct messaging function.

Lomond Property’s focus is on Instagram and Facebook, and we produce a video for each property, regularly catching buyers’ attention.

— On-Street Presence

Lomond office window digital displays are highly visible and in prominent retail locations with excellent footfall, and we encourage buyers to visit. On request, a Lomond Property For Sale board will be erected at your property at the appropriate time. We also respect that some sellers prefer not to advertise on-street.

Lomond will also sell properties off-market and privately, where our fees will be tailored to each, individual deal with the property curated for a particular buyer’s market.

Whilst each home is treated as unique by Lomond, selling any property follows the classic blueprint for sales and marketing

_Achieving the best price

_For the most competitive marketing costs

_Saving the seller time, money and emotional energy.

_Presentation

Most properties require little effort prior to listing. However, Lomond can provide guidance on small changes that can have a big impact, as well as advising on more detailed changes and their benefits to market value, listing price, and 'sellability'. Typically, this all leads to the best price in the shortest timeframe.

_Lomond's top tips are:

Think like a Buyer – cast a critical eye over your property, identify areas that require improvement

Reduce Clutter – keep rooms clean and tidy, allowing buyers to fully visualise the space

Keep it Light – sparkling windows, open blinds and curtains encourage as much natural light as possible into your home

Keep it Fresh – prior to viewings, open windows and doors allow fresh air to circulate throughout Kerb Appeal – a well-kept exterior creates a great first impression. Fresh paint, polished brass, and a neat and tidy garden with strategically placed furniture all really showcase your home.

Various surveys suggest that an untidy, cluttered property can reduce the average value by 10%, and possibly reduce the number of offers by 20%. Wherever possible, treat your sale like a business transaction – we do.

Lomond will advise on all the above during initial meetings, allowing all features to be presented well in the brochure, too.

_Viewings

These can be scheduled for specific days, by appointment, after hours, on weekends, or at any level of flexibility to suit you, the client, and your target market. Increased flexibility and our professional viewing service mean Lomond experts will actively sell your home to the right buyers.

To provide total availability, Lomond can also offer initial, virtual viewings via our own website, other property platforms, social media or even the likes of Microsoft Teams. These options, in conjunction with e-brochures and floor plans, are great ways to sell a property, especially when buyers cannot initially attend in person.

_Viewing Feedback

Lomond regard all viewing feedback as positive, taking the opportunity to answer any questions, address possible buyer concerns or to optimise any listing or service offering.
